

“I can’t believe I still can’t find a job. How am I going to keep this house? How am I going to take care of my family? I just can’t do this anymore.”

Depression is an illness that affects six million people nationwide. This can be brought on by a spontaneous physical or chemical change in the brain or external influences such as a significant loss by death, separation, divorce, moving from one’s home or illness. The fact remains that depression IS NOT a normal part of life. Please see the reverse side for a list of questions that can help you identify if someone you love is contemplating suicide.

I'm concerned about you:

- Do things seem hopeless to you?
- Are you thinking it would be easier to be dead?
- Are you thinking of killing yourself?

Please remember, you cannot make someone suicidal by talking about it. If you get a "yes" answer, don't panic.

It's time to ask for help – call now!
